Let's build this together

July 2026 · A conversation starter, not a contract — every number and every line below is open for discussion.

What we're building

Sold Direct is a WhatsApp-native platform that streamlines private property sales — 0% commission on the qualifying path, starting in prime Cape Town. The money comes from bond origination (in-house, direct with the banks, from Year 2), a 1% facilitation fee, bank sponsorship and fixed conveyancer panel advertising. Our CA-reviewed base case runs R6.1m (Y1) → R86.4m (Y5), EBITDA-positive in Year 3, with a R5m strategic seed at a R20m pre-money valuation. And it's not a slide deck — the core product is live: the WhatsApp transaction loop, the deal tracker, an internal dashboard and two public sites, typed end-to-end and CI-gated with 95 tests green.

Why Paysoft — honestly, it's three fits, not one

Build capacity	Our roadmap is specified, tested and CI-gated — we need senior delivery capacity, not discovery. Named workstreams ready to start: WhatsApp go-live hardening, the BetterBond/bank origination integration, e-signature, FICA pre-validation, conveyancer/bank status flows, portal syndication, dashboard buildout.
Payments rails	Your DebiCheck/debit-order and bulk-EFT rails are exactly the collections layer the platform needs: the 1% Flex fee, add-on services, and recurring conveyancer panel-advertising subscriptions. We bring transaction volume — 1,450 deals/yr by Year 5 plus a ~R50k/customer ecosystem menu; you bring the rails and earn on every movement.
ID verification	Paysoft's ID Verify (Home Affairs) slots straight into our FICA checklist flow — validating identity documents before the attorneys see them. In our bottleneck research, document rework is a top transfer-delay driver; this makes it a product feature.

What we'd love from Paysoft

A small squad	2–4 developers (a senior/mid blend) for an initial six months — technical leadership from within the Paysoft team, product direction from Johannes and Dean.
Our way of working	In our repository, our CI and our POPIA conventions; a weekly demo; "done" means deployed and tested.
A first sprint that shows off	WhatsApp production go-live (Twilio) plus FICA pre-validation using your own ID Verify — live customer value in weeks, not quarters.

The deal we have in mind — tweak it, challenge it

Founding equity	10% of Sold Direct at inception, alongside Johannes 32.5% · Dean 32.5% · a reserved option pool 4% · a reserved non-executive board seat 1% · strategic funder 20% (R5m). In return, Paysoft backs the build: preferred development rates for the platform plus a free-development allocation up to a value we agree together — and the stake vests as that value is delivered. Skin in the game on both sides.
Paid work too	Beyond the free allocation, ongoing work is billed at the preferred rate and funded from the seed round's product budget — real revenue for Paysoft from day one, over and above the equity.

Partner status	Exclusive payments & identity-verification partner to the platform, with your standard transaction fees on everything that moves — collections, payouts and subscriptions across the property ecosystem.
The upside	Our base-case model puts 10% at ~R36m at a ~R432m Year-5 exit (8.3% post-Series A). Model-grade, happily interrogated.

Keeping it clean

Clean contracts govern the relationship: the equity vests against delivered value, the engagement terms are written and arm's-length, everything is disclosed to our strategic funder and board, IP sits with Sold Direct, there's a simple SLA, and either side can step away on notice.

Next step: coffee with Johannes and Dean and a live walkthrough — the product on a phone, the model in a spreadsheet, the codebase on a laptop. Bring every hard question; we'd rather hear them now.

All figures are model-grade projections from the Sold Direct investor data room (July 2026), not audited forecasts. Nothing here constitutes an offer capable of acceptance; terms subject to contract and board approval.
